About me

Since childhood I've been very fond of playing games and creating all kinds of art, either alone or with my siblings. Now 20 years later, with different type of jobs, experience as a member of a family business advertisement agency and with many fun projects, from well known companies in my portfolio, I'm ready to seek my next chapter in life as a game developer. I'm driven and a very quick learner who works just as well in a group as alone - in most of the known programs.
